SunWize Brings More Solar Energy Products to California

Kingston, NY, May 22, 2007 - SunWize Technologies, a leading designer and distributor of residential solar energy systems and products, will be opening a 71,000 square foot manufacturing and distribution facility in Southern California on May 29. SunWize is moving from Oxnard, CA to Stadium Distribution Center in the City of Rancho Cucamonga, CA.

David Kulik, SunWize President, commented, "The new location, which is a fourfold increase of our space in California, will allow us to more effectively serve our expanding customer base in the Southwest and demonstrates our commitment to the growth of the solar business. It is the first step of a program to expand the services and system solutions we provide our customers".

Included in the system offerings are the new SunWize® Grid-Tie Systems with Battery Backup that provide the same SunWize quality and reliability as their FSEC approved SunWize® Grid-Tie Systems. SunWize also recently developed grid tie packages using the new Sharp SRS racking system. Kulik commented, "We pride ourselves in providing complete packages to our dealers to save them time and money. Customers can look forward to more innovative solutions from SunWize in the very near future."

SunWize also operates a 30,000 square foot manufacturing and distribution facility on the East Coast in Kingston, NY.

SunWize Technologies, a subsidiary of Mitsui & Co, (U.S.A.), Inc., specializes in the design and manufacture of solar energy systems, product distribution, and associated project development. The Company operates a manufacturing and distribution facility in Kingston, NY, serving as the company headquarters, a manufacturing and distribution center in the City of Rancho Cucamonga, CA and a distribution warehouse in Willits, CA. www.sunwize.com.
